

St Paul's Self-Care Pack 2022

The focus of this booklet is to provide tips, self-help ideas, support websites and helplines. Changes and uncertain times can sometimes affect our mental health. One way in which we can look after ourselves is through Self-Care. Below are four different ways we can look after ourselves.

What is in our control?

Sometimes self-care can be difficult, especially in uncertain times.

One way to manage this is to have a think about what is in our control and what is not. This is likely to be different for everyone, as we are all unique.

The image below shows the inner and outer circles of control. The inner circle gives examples of things that we can control, whereas the outer circle shows things that we cannot control. At times we may focus more on the things out of our control and this can lead to negative emotions.

Can you think of anything you could let go of that is not in your control?

thoughts, feelings and senses. Some benefits of mindfulness are: reducing stress, helping manage emotions and improved concentration.

Mindfulness

Mindfulness is a technique to help us focus on the here and now, rather than worrying about the past or the future. It is a non-judgemental approach that can help bring our awareness to our

Below are two different exercises you can use to practice mindfulness.

Just One Breath

BREATHING ACTIVITY

Find a relaxing place, sit comfortably, and set a timer for one minute.

Breathe deeply in and out while paying attention to any sensations you notice or sounds you hear.

Take another slow deep breath, imagine the air moving down into the lungs and back up.

Take one more deep breath and hold for a moment, then release it.

How can we support each other?

Sometimes we might find it difficult to always know how to help others if they are sad or upset.

The image to the left shows some suggestions of how you might be able to support others if they are struggling.

Perhaps take a few minutes to reflect on who you look to for support. See some examples below.

GREAT DREAM

Ten keys to happier living

GIVING		Do things for others
RELATING		Connect with people
EXERCISING		Take care of your body

Types of Self-Care

The image to the left shows ten ways in which we can look after our wellbeing. The first five are based on the NHS five steps to mental wellbeing.

Try making a self-care activity part of your daily routine. Remember that if one type of activity does not work, it's ok to try something different!

Examples of ways to Self-care:

- Listening to music
- Reading
- Exercising
- Baking or cooking
- Expressing emotions
- Socialising
- Drawing
- Reducing social media use
- Journaling
- Hobbies/interests
- Learn a new skill
- Goal-setting

My Self-care plan

Try making your own Self-care plan, based on the four different types of Self-care. This can include activities with your friends, family or carers.

Remember Self-care is not Self-indulgent, just like our phones need recharging, so do we!

If you are struggling

If you are suffering from low mood or have had thoughts about feeling like you want to hurt yourself, try some of the following coping strategies.

Try to understand and identify what may be causing you to feel like this. By doing this you can start to develop healthier alternatives such as releasing strong emotions by:

- Scribbling with red ink
- Listening to music or writing music
- Writing down your feelings and then rip the paper up
- Take a bath or hot/cold shower
- Call a friend for distraction
- Punch a cushion
- Squeeze a stress ball
- Squeeze ice really hard
- Exercise- go for a walk/ride a bike/go running
- Write a list of your achievements
- Ask yourself “Do I feel angry?” “Do I feel anxious?” “What about...?”
- Reason with yourself
- Reduce stress e.g. having enough sleep and a balanced diet
- Seek help from organisations (see next page)

From this list or using other healthier alternatives try to create your own safety plan. Try to include: Ways you will calm & soothe yourself, how you will cope & what you will tell yourself and who you will call and go to for support.

Helplines for support over the summer

If you or someone you know needs help right now, you should try to talk to a parent or carer, or a trusted adult such as a GP.

If talking to an adult is not possible, the following organisations are available 7 days a week:

If you are worried that a young person is at immediate risk of harm, or is not safe, call 999 or go to A&E.

My Safety Plan

What makes you feel upset?

How can I keep myself safe right now? (Speaking to someone for help? Are there things around you making you feel unsafe? Can being somewhere else make you feel better/safer?)

What helps me to feel good? (Favourite activity or game? Favourite food or snack? Being with friends & family?)

If I need help, who can I call? (A friend, parent or relative? Or a help line see page 11)

My Emergency Safety Plan

If I don't feel safe inside my house, I will go to a safe place and call someone who can help me.

My safe place inside my house is:

The person I can call is:

Their number is:

Or if I need to go somewhere outside my house, my safe place is:

I will phone the police if I am afraid that I might get hurt or am hurt

Call 999

I will talk to someone that I trust about what is happening to me and if I need some support, this may be friend or a trusted adult I know.
